DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Huff. Huff discloses in Figure 3a and in the specification a panel assembly comprising panel and a frame having a generally annular shape including first and second sections, where the frame includes snap fit devices on the frame sections which allow the panel to be retained between the frame sections.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 and 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lavi in view of Huff. Lavi discloses in Figure 1 and in the specification a panel assembly comprising a panel which is retained within a frame. Lavi fails to disclose that the frame has first and second sections which attach together such that the panel is positioned between the sections. Huff discloses in Figure 3a and in the specification a panel assembly comprising a panel and a frame having a generally annular shape including first and second sections, where the frame includes snap fit devices on the frame sections which allow the panel to be retained between the frame sections. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the device disclosed by Lavi by providing a frame having first and second sections as recited for the purpose of providing for more secure retention of the panel within the frame. With respect to claim 2, the frames of both Lavi and Huff have openings which expose the panel. With respect to claim 3, the panel of Lavi includes a writing surface. With respect to claims 4-6 and 8-12, Huff discloses in Figure 3a and in the specification that coupling members including tabs and mounting holes are provided on each frame section which allow for a snap fit. The various features recited in the claims, including the locations of the mounting members and the notches, are considered to be obvious variations on the disclosed mechanism of Huff, in that they all perform the same function of providing a snap fit attachment of the frame members.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lavi in view of Huff, and further in view of Flodin. Lavi as viewed in combination with Huff discloses all of the limitations of the claims with the exception of the ribs as recited. Flodin discloses in Figure 2 and in the specification a frame having sections which are joined by snap fit, where the coupling members are disposed within two ribs. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the device disclosed by Lavi as viewed in combination with Huff by providing ribs as recited for the purpose of limiting lateral movement of the frame members.

Art Unit: 3711

Claims 13 and 14 are is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lavi in view of Huff, and further in view of Rosen. Lavi as viewed in combination with Huff discloses all of the limitations of the claims with the exception of the pockets for storing writing utensils. Such pockets are known in the art, as disclosed for example by Rosen. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the device disclosed by Lavi as viewed in combination with Huff by providing pockets as recited for the purpose of allowing a user to store writing utensils.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Seiber, Domina, Sud, Ternovits, Brown and Golston disclose various panel assemblies.
